MALONE AND ENOS TO ADDRESS ATHLETIC DIRECTORS' CONVENTION

The President of Loyola College, the Very Reverend Patrick G. Malone, S.J., and Loyola's Director of Physical Education and Athletics, Ed Enos, have been selected to speak at the annual national meeting of the Canadian Association of University Athletic Directors. The meetings are to be held May 31 to June 1 inclusive at Queen's University in Kingston.

Father Malone and Enos have been the two men behind the scenes at Loyola directing what has been described as one of the most successful college athletic and physical education programs in Canada over the past six years.

Father Malone, Loyola's dynamic president, has been the main reason for the college's growth and development in all areas. One of the several new buildings that have been constructed during his term of office has been Loyola's modern athletic complex. During his twelve years as president of Loyola, Father Malone's first and foremost goal has been the pursuit of academic excellence for the college. He has not denied the need, however, and has supported the place and value of physical education and intercollegiate athletics at the university level.

In 1965 Father Malone as part of his staff and professional recruitment drive attracted Ed Enos from the Montreal Alouette coaching staff. With Father Malone's and the rest of the university's backing one of the first moves by Enos was to initiate a five year academic-athletic expansion program. Since the expansion plan commenced, thirty-one championships have been won by Loyola teams, including: 1) a fourth undefeated league championship (59 consecutive victories) and a third provincial championship by the varsity basketball aggregation; 2) an undefeated league season by the varsity football team in 1968; 3) four consecutive league titles and three play-off championships by the varsity hockey team, three provincial crowns, and two major holiday tournaments; 4) four league championships in five years and an unbeaten streak of 36 conference games by the varsity soccer team, runner-up the past season for the National title; 5) two curling and one sailing title.

The academic side of Loyola's unique academic-athletic program boasts an equally impressive record. A recent survey revealed that varsity athletes had collectively earned second class academic honours. Among the major graduating awards that have been won by student-athletes annually include the prestigious Loyola Medal and the Desmarais Prize.

With their impressive record Father Malone and Enos have achieved, their remarks to the national meeting should make for interesting listening. Ed Enos, soon to be Dr. Enos, and Father Malone will cover the subject, Philosophical, Psychological, Sociological and Financial Implications and Need for Athletics within Post-secondary Institutions. Following their addresses they will join Dr. Lockhart, President of the University of Winnipeg, and Dave Anderson, Winnipeg's Athletic Director and President of the CAUAD, in a panel discussion.
